Jacopo Natoli

Rome, 1985 · jacoponatoli@gmail.com · jacoponatoli.net

Jacopo Natoli's practice intersects visual poetry, performance and radical pedagogy.

Rooted in a relational and iconoclastic stance, he creates works in dialogue with the post-internet horizon.

Through an undisciplined approach and the logic of montage, he plays with the limits of systems of power, forces open fields that extend the possible, and pursues the suspension of meaning.

He writes essays, interviews and poems, and curates exhibition projects in non-designated spaces. He teaches Art and Image at a lower secondary school.

In 2026 he founded the publishing house Tempo Perso. Since 2021 he has been part of the independent space Post Ex, and he has been its president since 2026. With Indicibili he experiments with non-ordinary states of consciousness. He was a co-founder of Numero Cromatico and Nodes Journal (2011–2018).
